Ethics and Compliance in our Workplace

Health Alliance strives to maintain a reputation for excellence by establishing the highest ethical principles and professional standards and ensuring compliance with applicable state and federal laws. These principles and standards apply to our relationships with members, providers, employer groups, vendors, consultants, regulatory agencies, joint-venture partners, board members and to our coworkers. Our understanding of this commitment and our willingness to raise ethical concerns are essential to the well-being of our customers and to the success of the organization.

Ethics and Compliance in our Workplace: Guide to Employee Conduct (Guide) was written to provide support to all employees (including temporary employees or interns) and board members of Health Alliance Medical Plans, Inc., Health Alliance Midwest, Inc. and Health Alliance Connect, LLC (Health Alliance) in carrying out workplace activities within appropriate ethical and legal boundaries. The Guide is supported by detailed organizational and departmental policies and procedures. You are responsible for being familiar with the organizational policies as well as the departmental policies and procedures that affect your job. All policies, procedures and other Compliance Program documents are available on the Compliance Program SharePoint site and in the online Health Alliance Reference Library. However, it must be recognized that this Guide can neither cover every situation in the daily conduct of our many varied activities, nor substitute for common sense, individual judgment or personal integrity.

This Guide is not an employment contract, although adherence to these standards is a condition of employment.

Commitment to Compliance

Health Alliance—from Board members to staff—is committed to an environment and corporate culture in which compliance with rules, regulations (state and federal) and the guidance and sound business practices of the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) is encouraged and expected. We accept the responsibility to aggressively self-govern and monitor adherence to the requirements of the law and to this Guide.

We are committed to conducting business with the highest ethical standards and you must never sacrifice ethical and compliant behavior in the pursuit of business and financial objectives.

With this commitment in mind, if you encounter a situation or are considering a course of action that potentially may be in violation of the law or be unethical, you are encouraged to contact the Compliance Officer or the Compliance Line for guidance. There will be no retribution for asking questions, raising concerns or reporting possible violations in good faith.

Health Alliance has established an incentive program to promote and support the understanding of, and the adherence to, the ethical principles and professional standards outlined in this Guide.

Mission and Values

The mission and values of Health Alliance should be pursued with fairness, honesty and integrity.

Our mission is to provide competitive insurance products that maximize value to shareholders, purchasers and members.

ICARE

Integrity

We think and act with honesty and in the best interest of our customers, coworkers and the organization.

Collaboration

We work with the people we serve, each other and external partners to offer the highest quality health care and health coverage in the region. We are part of an interconnected system in which all players have vital roles.

Accountability

We maintain the highest standards and follow through on assignments and promises.

Respect

We treat our customers and coworkers with courtesy, compassion and kindness while maintaining their dignity and respecting their individual opinions and beliefs.

Excellence

We seek excellence with a passion for going beyond expectations in all that we do. We commit to constantly improving our knowledge, skills and attitudes in the pursuit of care, service and quality.

Oversight

While you are obligated to follow this Guide, we expect our leaders to set the example. They must ensure that all employees have sufficient information to comply with laws, regulations and policies, as well as the resources to resolve ethical dilemmas. Our leaders must help create a culture that promotes the highest standards of ethics and compliance within Health Alliance.

The Board of Directors made a commitment to compliance when they passed a resolution calling for the creation and implementation of a Compliance Program on August 24, 1998. As part of the implementation of the Compliance Program, a Compliance Committee was developed and the Director of Compliance was appointed as the Compliance Officer. The Committee is comprised of director and senior level members and has oversight of the Compliance Program. The Compliance Officer reports directly to the Chief Executive Officer and the Senior Vice President of Corporate Affairs and General Counsel and the Compliance Committee of the Board of Directors. The Compliance Programs Manager reports to the Compliance Officer and maintains documents and provides education related to the Compliance Program.

Compliance Awareness and Education

Programs have been developed to educate all employees on the importance of compliance in their daily work responsibilities. New employees will receive general compliance education as part of the new employee orientation. Current employees will receive general compliance education on an annual basis. Specialized education will be conducted for employees whose responsibilities fall under our Medicare Advantage and Part D plans (MA-PD).

This Guide is reviewed on an annual basis for necessary modifications.

General Education

General education includes a review of this Guide, samples of ethical dilemmas and how to deal with them, and how to report a potential non-compliance issue.

After completing the initial compliance education, employees are required to attest to the fact that they have read the Employee Guide to Conduct and are committed to the standards in the Guide. Annual education is mandatory for all employees. Participation is electronically tracked in the Learning Management System. Failure to participate in the initial and annual education will be grounds for disciplinary action.

Specialized Education

Specialized education is provided to positions related to the MA-PD products. The education involves a review of written policies and procedures related to specific job functions and any legislative, regulatory or business decision changes that affect a specific job function.

Each department director sets department-specific guidelines regarding the minimum number of specialized training hours required for each position. These are established in the department position competencies which are maintained within each department.

Besides ongoing internal education, certain employees are encouraged to attend externally provided training seminars and workshops specific to their areas.

Informal and Ongoing Compliance Education

In addition to the formal, general and specialized compliance education, compliance information is communicated throughout the organization via newsletters, posters, web or SharePoint sites, the Health Alliance Reference Library and emails.

Refer to the policy and procedure on Compliance Training and Education for further details.

Communication and Reporting Misconduct or Violations

Communication

A successful Compliance Program is built on two-way communication – from the Compliance Department to our customers (e.g. employees, providers, members) and from our customers to the Compliance Department.

The Compliance Department and the Government Relations Department provide information on statutory and regulatory updates. The Compliance Department educates employees and customers on the prevention and detection of compliance and ethical issues through informational material and training programs. It is imperative that our employees and customers feel they can communicate with the Compliance Department when they have questions about regulations, policies and procedures or when they suspect misconduct.

Reporting Misconduct, Compliance Violations, Breaches of Confidentiality, or Security Incidents

If you become aware of misconduct or a possible violation of something in this Guide, an organizational policy, federal or state law, or a privacy or security incident, you should report such concern to your supervisor, the Compliance Officer or follow your department's chain of command.

There may be circumstances that would make such a disclosure uncomfortable or inappropriate. Therefore, other avenues have been developed to report compliance concerns or suspected violations, including the ability to report anonymously. Refer to the key contact list on the last page of this Guide.

Carle Human Resources uses an exit interview questionnaire that gathers information from departing employees regarding potential misconduct and suspected violations of the organization's policy and procedures as well as ethical and legal standards. Any pertinent information collected in the exit interview is shared, in a confidential manner, with the Compliance Officer.

No Retaliation

Good Faith Reporting (including, but not limited to, reporting of potential issues, investigating issues, conducting self-evaluations, audits and remedial actions, and reporting to the appropriate officials) is an expected, accepted and protected behavior. Conduct intended to retaliate against an employee for making a Good Faith Report or to coerce an employee to make a false report, is itself a violation. If you feel you may be the subject of any retaliation, retribution, harassment, penalty, coercion or attempt to influence, you should immediately contact the Compliance Officer.

Refer to the policy and procedure on Reporting Suspected Misconduct and Compliance Violations, Potential Fraud or Abuse and Privacy and Security Incidents for further details.

Compliance Risks, Auditing and Monitoring (Including Fraud, Waste and Abuse)

Health Alliance is committed to the auditing and monitoring of our operations as well as for the prevention, detection and correction of non-compliance and fraud, waste and abuse.

A risk assessment on our functions related to our MA-PD plans is performed on an annual basis.

Monitoring activities – which are reviews that are repeated regularly during the normal course of operations – are performed on our

MA-PD functions. Audits are formal reviews conducted by the Compliance Department on high-risk areas on an annual basis and specific reviews conducted by external entities, including regulatory agencies.

Refer to the Risk Assessment, Risk Management and the Auditing and Monitoring policies and procedures and the Health Alliance Fraud, Waste and Abuse Program description for further details.

Investigations, Corrective Actions and Disciplinary Standards

The Compliance Officer or designee will investigate and document all reports of suspected misconduct, compliance violation, potential fraud, waste or abuse, and privacy or security incidents as outlined in the Internal Compliance Investigations policy and procedure.

If an internal investigation uncovers misconduct or a compliance violation, a corrective action plan will be enacted. This plan will include making prompt restitution of any error, implementing changes to prevent a similar violation from recurring in the future, instituting whatever employee disciplinary action is necessary and notifying the appropriate governmental agency, when appropriate.

You are expected to abide by state and federal laws, regulations, CMS Medicare Guidelines

(including those regarding compliance, fraud, waste and abuse) that pertain to Health Alliance and this Guide. You must also follow the organization's policies and procedures and willingly participate in the Compliance Program's efforts. Failure to do so will result in disciplinary action. The precise disciplinary action will depend on the nature, severity and frequency of the violations and may result in disciplinary actions as stated in the Carle Disciplinary Policy and the Disciplinary Policy Addendum for Health Alliance employees.

The Compliance Officer will present a summary of violations and incidents to the Compliance Committee on a quarterly basis.

Refer to the Internal Compliance Investigations and the Corrective Actions policies and procedures for further details.

Confidentiality of Information and Protecting Company Assets

As an employee of Health Alliance, you may have access to confidential information including patient, member, financial or proprietary business information.

You are required to sign a confidentiality and security agreement on an annual basis, which outlines your obligations regarding confidential information. Failure to comply with the agreement may result in disciplinary action, which may include termination of employment.

Intellectual Property

You must treat all Health Alliance intellectual property as confidential and proprietary information. Intellectual property includes, but is not limited to, the following categories: new products or marketing plans; business strategies and plans; detailed financial and pricing information; computer programs and customer lists. This list of categories is not all-inclusive but suggests the wide array of information that may be entitled to secret protection. Acknowledging the critical business value of our intellectual property, you must agree that you will not use this property to the competitive disadvantage of Health Alliance nor will you disclose any such intellectual property or information to any other party without proper authority or authorization to do so.

Trademarks

The Health Alliance logo and any copyrighted materials are among Health Alliance's most valuable assets. Consult the Health Alliance Style Manual or our Communications Department before using or sharing these assets.

Member Information

All member-identifiable health information transmitted or maintained by Health Alliance must be safeguarded to prevent inappropriate uses and disclosures. Health Alliance has developed privacy and security policies that state when it is appropriate to use and disclose member information and detailed guidelines to safeguard this information. You are responsible for being familiar with these policies.

Protecting Company Assets

It is your responsibility to preserve Health Alliance's assets. Assets include time, materials and supplies, equipment and information. As a general rule, personal use of Health Alliance assets without prior approval from your supervisor or use not allowed via a policy and procedure is prohibited.

Refer to the privacy policies for further details.

Accuracy of Records and Record Retention

Health Alliance needs accurate and reliable information to make sound business decisions. You must not alter or destroy permanent Health Alliance documents or records. All records must be kept in approved systems and files in order to provide members and government agencies with accurate information. All records are subject to the Record Retention Policy and may be disposed of only in accordance with the policy.

Refer to the Record Retention policy for further details.

Conflicts of Interest

Business decisions and actions must be based on the best interest of Health Alliance and not personal interests or relationships. Conflicts of interest arise when a member of the Board of Directors or an employee is in a position to influence (either directly or indirectly) business decisions that could lead to gain for you, your relatives or others, to the detriment of Health Alliance and our mission and integrity.

If you have decision-making authority, you are required to complete a Conflict of Interest form on an annual basis, disclosing all circumstances that may be a conflict. The Compliance Officer will review all forms disclosing information regarding a potential conflict of interest and refer to the Senior Vice President of Corporate Affairs and General Counsel for review.

Some examples of conflicts of interest include:

- Ownership of a significant financial interest in any outside concern that does business with, or is a competitor of Health Alliance.
- Obtaining any personal financial benefit or advantage from a transaction to which Health Alliance is a party.

- Provision of services for compensation to any outside concern that does business with, or is a competitor of Health Alliance.
- Acceptance of gifts of more than $100, excessive entertainment or other substantial favors from any outside concern that does business with or is seeking to do business with Health Alliance or a competitor. This excludes “door prizes” and other giveaway items received at trade association meetings and conferences.
- Disclosure or use of confidential information for personal profit or advantage.

Please note that these are just examples and do not include all possible conflicts of interest.

Refer to the Conflict of Interest policy for further details.

Business Courtesies

Gifts, Favors, Travel and Entertainment

Gifts, favors, travel and entertainment may create a conflict of interest with your obligations to Health Alliance and may constitute a violation of law.

Generally, you should not accept or give gifts of more than $100, or accept or provide excessive entertainment or other substantial favors. This excludes “door prizes” and other giveaway items received at trade association meetings and conferences.

In addition, Medicare’s Marketing Guidelines allow nominal giveaways for prospective enrollees only if the value is $15 or less. Gifts of money or cash equivalents are never permissible. You should not give gifts, meals, favors, or travel and entertainment to vendors, suppliers, customers or others without the approval of your manager.

Government Employees

Very strict guidelines prohibit giving any type of gratuity or anything of value to federal and some state employees. You may not provide or pay for meals, refreshments, travel or lodging expenses for government employees.

Both company policy and laws could be violated if anything of value is given to a government employee, even if there is no intent to influence an official action or decision. Therefore, you should not entertain a public official or otherwise engage in lobbying efforts without authorization from the Senior Vice President of Corporate Affairs and General Counsel.

Media

The reputation of Health Alliance comes, in part, from the relationship it maintains with the news media. For this reason, it is important that we present information to the news media in a clear, accurate, positive and professional manner.

The Communications Department must approve all information provided to the media. Contacts from the news media should be forwarded to a Communications Manager.

Member information should never be disclosed to the news media without first obtaining an authorization from the member.

Government Investigations and Interviews

Health Alliance must cooperate fully and promptly with any appropriately authorized government investigation. It is important, however, that during this process Health Alliance is able to protect the legal rights of the company and its employees. To do so, you must promptly notify the Compliance Officer or a Compliance Committee member upon contact from a government official. The Compliance Officer or Compliance Committee member will contact the Senior Vice President of Corporate Affairs and General Counsel.

You must not alter or destroy permanent documents or records of Health Alliance. You should be courteous and professional, however, you are under no obligation to speak to an agent(s).

Refer to the Responding to Government Investigations policy for further details.

Fraud/Misrepresentation

Employees must never misrepresent facts or create misleading impressions. Misunderstandings can result in misplaced expectations and circumstances in which customers believe they have not been given accurate information.

False Claims Act

Health Alliance prohibits any activity that is in violation of the False Claims Act. The False Claims Act imposes civil liability on any person or entity who submits a false or fraudulent claim for payment to the United States government. The False Claims Act also prohibits:

- making a false record or statement to get a false or fraudulent claim paid by the government;
- conspiring to have a false or fraudulent claim paid by the government;

- withholding property of the government with the intent to defraud the government or to willfully conceal it from the government;
- making or delivering a receipt for the government's property which is false or fraudulent;
- buying property belonging to the government from someone who is not authorized to sell the property; or,
- making a false statement to avoid or deceive an obligation to pay money or property to the government.

Marketing Practices

Marketing and Advertising Practices

Health Alliance engages in the advertising, marketing and sale of various insurance and managed care products, both to employer groups and to individuals. Health Alliance employees and associates must accurately represent products, services, benefits and prices when engaging in marketing and sales efforts and should always do so with integrity. All marketing materials should be carefully reviewed by the Communications Department to assure that statements are factual and not misleading.

All eligible Medicare beneficiaries are allowed to enroll in our Medicare plans regardless of age, health status or cost of health services needed, unless otherwise regulated (such as with End-Stage Renal Disease). Sales representatives and other associates must not discriminate on the basis of the health status of individuals when enrolling beneficiaries. This means that no prospective member may be asked questions concerning health status, and no medical screening of any kind may be performed. A Health Risk Assessment (HRA) can be done after enrollment to place the member in an appropriate disease or medical case management program.

Similarly, any efforts to encourage disenrollment from our Medicare plans because of the individual's health status are strictly prohibited. The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) has published guidelines for use by Medicare Advantage plans in marketing to beneficiaries. These guidelines should be strictly followed.

Sales Practices

Each sales representative must maintain a producer's license in the State of Illinois and adhere to all applicable state laws, and those selling to Medicare individuals must adhere to CMS regulations as guidelines for honest marketing practices.

Anti-Kickback Laws

The federal anti-kickback laws that apply to Medicare prohibit persons or entities from knowingly offering, paying, soliciting or receiving remuneration of any kind to induce the referral of business under a federal program. In addition, most states have laws that prohibit kickbacks and rebates.

Health Plans marketing to Medicare enrollees are specifically prohibited from providing any kind of remuneration to entice beneficiaries to join our plans, although the government recognizes that providing very nominal items (defined as having a value of $15 or less) in the course of marketing activities is acceptable.

Workplace Conduct and Employment Practices

Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action

Health Alliance is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate against any individual in any phase of employment on the basis of race, color, sex, national origin, religion, age, disability or any other legally protected status in accordance with applicable local, state and federal law.

Employee referrals are one of the sources Carle uses for recruitment. We also recruit through schools, classified advertisements, the Internet and other resources as deemed necessary. Employee referrals will be given equal consideration with applicants from all other recruiting sources.

Discrimination and Harassment

Health Alliance and Carle are committed to maintaining a work environment that is free of discrimination. In keeping with this commitment, we will not tolerate harassment of our employees by anyone, including any supervisor, manager, coworker, vendor or a member of Health Alliance.

Harassment includes unwelcome conduct, whether verbal, physical or visual, that is based upon a person's protected status, such as sex, color, race, ancestry, religion, national origin, age, physical handicap, medical condition, disability, marital status, veteran status, citizenship status or other protected group status. Health Alliance and Carle do not tolerate harassing conduct that affects tangible job benefits, that interferes unreasonably with an individual's work performance, or that creates an intimidating, hostile or offensive work environment.

You are responsible for helping avoid harassment. If you feel that you have experienced or witnessed harassment, you are to notify Human Resources immediately. No retaliation will be made against anyone for reporting harassment, assisting in making a harassment complaint or cooperating in a harassment investigation.

All complaints will be investigated thoroughly and promptly. To the fullest extent practicable, we will keep complaints and the terms of their resolution confidential.

General Health and Safety

Health Alliance and Carle are committed to providing a safe and healthy work environment for all employees. You can support this commitment by observing all health and safety rules and laws that apply to your job, and promptly report accidents, injuries or occupational hazards and unsafe practices or conditions to your manager.

Drug- and Alcohol-Free Workplace

Health Alliance and Carle promote the health and well-being of all employees and members by providing a drug-free workplace. For this reason, smoking and tobacco products are prohibited in all Health Alliance and Carle leased or owned facilities and grounds.

You will not unlawfully manufacture, distribute, dispense, possess or use any narcotic drug, hallucinogenic drug, amphetamine, barbiturate, marijuana or any other controlled substance on or in the workplace or on any Health Alliance and Carle premises.

Other than at company-sponsored or approved functions, alcohol consumption is prohibited at any time on Health Alliance and Carle property and is prohibited during work time. Aside from company-sponsored or approved functions, anyone who consumes alcohol on Health Alliance and Carle property or who comes to work while under the influence of alcohol will be subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination.

The Employee Assistance Program is available for those individuals needing assistance with drug- or alcohol-related problems. You can contact this program by calling 217-383-3202.

This Guide does not address all the Human Resources related policies, which you are obligated to follow. You are encouraged to read the Employee Handbook and the Carle policies and procedures which are located on the Carle internal website, CWEB.

Nothing in this Guide to Employee Conduct is intended to be, nor shall it be construed as providing, any additional employment or contract rights to employees or other persons.

While Health Alliance will generally attempt to communicate changes concurrent with or prior to the implementation of such changes, Health Alliance reserves the right to modify, amend or alter this Guide without notice to any person or employee.
